Journal of Population
Economics
© Springer-Verlag 1989

Contents

Bental B: The old age security hypothesis and optimal population growth 285

Berninghaus S, Seifert-Vogt HG: Temporary vs. permanent migration. A decision theoretical approach 195

Blanchet D: Age structure and capital dilution effects in neo-classical growth models 183

Easterlin RA → Macunovich DJ

Ermisch J: Intergenerational transfers in industrialised countries. Effects of age distribution and economic institutions 269

Imhoff E van: Age structure, education, and the transmission of technical change 167

Kimenyi MS, Shugart II WF, Tollison RD: An interest-group theory of population growth 131

Lehrer EL: Preschoolers with working mothers. An analysis of the determinants of child care arrangements 251

Leung SF: On tests for sex preferences 95

Macunovich DJ, Easterlin RA: Application of Granger-Sims causality tests to monthly fertility data, 1958–1984 71

Moffitt R: Demographic behavior and the welfare state. Econometric issues in the identification of the effects of tax and transfer programs 237

Nerlove M: Population policy and individual choice 17

Praag BMS van: The notion of population economics 3

Rao V: Diet, mortality and life expectancy. A cross national analysis 225

Ray R: Household composition and optimal commodity taxes. Do demographic variables matter? 213

Rodriguez A: The dependency ratio and optimum population growth. The total utility case 141

Seifert-Vogel HG → Berninghaus S

Shugart II WF → Kimenyi MS

Smith N, Westergård-Nielsen N: Wage differentials due to gender 115

Stark O, Yitzhaki S: Labour migration as a response to relative deprivation 57

Stark O, Yitzhaki S: Merging populations, stochastic dominance and Lorenz curves 157

Tollison RD → Kimenyi MS

Weizsäcker RK von: Age structure and income distribution policy 33

Westergård-Nielsen N → Smith N

Yitzhaki S → Stark O

Zimmermann KF: Editorial 1